If you think you might be pregnant, a good first step is to schedule a medical pregnancy test with a trusted health care provider, like Piedmont Women's Center.

Symptoms such as a missed period do not always result from pregnancy.

Clients in the early stages of pregnancy may be eligible for a free, limited OB ultrasound at Piedmont Women's Center. By definition, a limited OB ultrasound establishes whether a pregnancy is viable, by identifying a heartbeat; determines that the pregnancy is intrauterine, or in the uterus; and measures the gestational age of the baby.

A limited OB ultrasound is a valuable tool in your decision-making process.

Regardless of the anxiety you may be experiencing now, a pregnancy is not the end of your prospects. Many women have been in your place and have gone on to complete degrees and accomplish great things in their careers.

If you are pregnant you have three options; parenting, adoption and abortion.

You can find information about all of these options on our website or, you can make an appointment with us to discuss your individual circumstances.

Parenting Assistance

If you are considering parenting, help is available. Find out here about your resources for nutrition, education, counseling, clothing, housing, and more. We are here to help you understand all the assistance available to you.

Adoption

Adoption can provide your child with a safe, stable family environment, even if you yourself aren't ready to do so. According to women who chose to place their child with adoptive parents, making an adoption plan can be a fulfilling experience.

Abortion

Abortion is a medical (the abortion pill) or surgical procedure that terminates pregnancy. Piedmont Women's Center does not perform or refer for abortion. For a complete list of information about abortion, please visit our website.
